Greetings from the Principal's Office

These first five weeks of school have been a whirlwind. Students remember to keep working hard to achieve great success. Success doesn't fall into your lap; you have to earn it through hard work. Remember that one way to earn success is to complete your homework on time. The fall sports season is off to a great start. Good luck the rest of your season.

StriveTV: This year we have partnered with Striv Sports to stream all of our home and some away events. You can catch the action on our Striv page (<https://striv.tv/channel/overton>). You can catch live action and also past events will be posted here. Hopefully this will help us reach more of Eagle Nation throughout the year.

Attendance & Punctuality: Good attendance is one of the most important factors in a student's success in school. Students easily fall behind when they are repeatedly absent from school. Taking care of your health by getting a good night sleep, eating properly, and maintaining good hygiene is a great way to help improve attendance. As important as a student's attendance in school is their punctuality to school. Being on time indicates a level of respect for the event you are attending. This could be an appointment or simply being on time to school. The school day begins at 8:05. Thank you for making every effort to be on time to school. Punctuality is a life skill that is becoming lost in society. Let's break this cycle!

Educationally yours,

Mr. Brian Fleischman, Principal

Spanish news

News from the Spanish department includes an important item from May. Five of our Spanish 2 students earned honorable mention in the National Spanish Exam for 2018. Since over 150,000 students across the United States participate in the exams which are the largest of their kind, it is special to be recognized for excellence among so many.

Spanish classes continue to be culture as well as language oriented. Examples of learning about cultural aspects took last year's Spanish 3 students Cody Nichols and Diana Perdomo on a field trip to Lexington where they could observe Spanish in action in the community. Spanish is all around us here in south central Nebraska. Students have opportunities to practice their language skills in many situations with friends, at work or at special events.

One of the favorite ways classes like to relate to cultures of Spanish-speaking countries is by trying typical foods. Below Cody and Diana made some yummy tacos to sample.

This year Spanish 1 is finding that their whole body can be helpful in attaining a new language as we apply the TPR (Total Physical Response) method of instruction. Ask your student to demonstrate how it works.

Spanish 2 is doing a lot of review of essential verbs and that most important skill known as conjugation. If you're wondering about exactly what that involves, ask your student. Here they are enjoying the challenge of verb conjugation on the Kahoot game/quiz format.

We are looking forward to a great year of growth as we continue to build our experiences with culture and language.

Helping Children Learn

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Tips Families Can Use to Help Children Do Better in School

October 2018

Title I Cooperative
Educational Service Unit 10

Add some variety to keep your daily reading time engaging

Reading opens the door to all kinds of learning. That's why educators say that helping your child develop his skills and interest in reading is one of the most important things you can do to help him achieve in school.

Making time to read together every day shows your child that reading is a priority in your family. But you don't always have to do it the same way!

To encourage your child to be an active reader:

- Read in interesting places. Outside in a hammock. Inside in a cozy corner filled with pillows. Or under a blanket draped over some chairs. Keep some books in the bathroom to read while your child is in the tub.
- Plan reading excursions. Visit the library often and let your child choose books to check out. Stop for a snack on the way home and read together as you munch.
- Start a family book club. It doesn't have to be formal. Just set aside time once a week—dinner time is perfect—to talk about something you have all read. Or let everyone bring a book to tell the others about.
- Play with plays. Get a short, easy-to-read script and give each family member a role. Encourage everyone to be dramatic and ham it up.

Take the anxiety out of test-taking

Anxiety about tests is common among students, and it can prevent them from doing their best. To help your child go into tests relaxed and confident:

- Talk about what tests do— and what they don't. Tests show the teacher what your child has learned so far, and what she needs help with. They don't judge her value as a student or a person.
- Space study sessions out for several days before the test. Cramming the night before is not as effective.
- Connect new material to things your child already knows.
- Help her focus her study efforts on material she hasn't mastered yet, rather than repeatedly reviewing material she already knows.
- Tell her to give herself a pep talk if she feels overwhelmed during a test. She can say, "I know this. I can remember the answer."
- Teach her to take deep breaths to relax and improve her focus.

Brainstorm to help your child improve writing

Writers know that descriptive details add interest and depth to their stories. But many kids struggle to come up with these details when they write.

Brainstorming with your child can help him flesh out his ideas. Ask him to think about the five senses. What do things in his story look/feel/smell/sound/taste like?

Source: "Five Senses Graphic Organizer," The Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, niswc.com/details.

Make time for a conference

Teachers have many pupils. But at a parent-teacher conference, the focus is on just one child—yours. It is an ideal time for you and the teacher to plan ways to help your child succeed. To make the most of it:

- Bring a list of questions about your child's work habits, attitude, friends, behavior, strengths and weaknesses.
- Listen carefully and take notes.
- Share information about your child: her favorite school activities and subjects, her struggles and any sensitive issues.
- Agree on a plan to address concerns and schedule a time to follow up.

Teach respectful behavior

Saying please and thank you shows respect and makes life with others pleasant. In school, your child should also:

- Arrive prepared— ready to learn and participate in class.
- Raise his hand. Waiting to be called on instead of blurting out answers or comments shows respect for classmates and the teacher.
- Accept constructive feedback. In order to help students learn, teachers must point out mistakes.

Recycle your old used up markers!!

The art room will be participating in Crayola's marker recycling program—we are collecting dried out plastic markers-Crayola, highlighters, sharpies, crazy art, etc.—it is not limited to Crayola brand. If you would like to send spent markers to school for recycling, have them delivered to Mrs. Emily Brooks. We can help the environment together! Also, speaking of reuse/recycle, the art room can use ice cream bucket lids and shoe boxes if you have any to spare. Thanks for your support!!

FFA

The FFA Officers had a busy summer preparing for the school year and planning events for the very first FFA Chapter at Overton! In May, the seven officers attended Chapter Officer Leadership Training (COLT) in Aurora for three days where we spent time with the State FFA Officer team learning our roles for planning our POA for the upcoming school year. We did a lot of work but also got to enjoy ourselves by participating in rec time, flashlight relays, a dance, and a banquet.

We continued our planning during our officer retreat to

Sherman County Reservoir. We spent the majority of the time relaxing and enjoyed our time swimming, kayaking, playing yard games, and grilling!

With all of the events planned for the year, we needed to spend some time raising money. We have fundraisers planned for the year, but we tried to get a headstart this summer and served breakfast concession stands at the Nebraska State Hereford Show in Kearney. We would like to thank everyone who helped out and donated money or food items to make the events successful.

In August members from our chapter volunteered to work at the Overton Community BBQ. We spent an evening setting up, managing trash the day of the BBQ, and cleaning up the next afternoon. Individuals involved with the service were: Nathan Seberger, Abby Lawton, Dalton Carlson, Addison Luther, Wyatt Ryan, Angel Brummet, Cinch Kiger, Alex Hubbard, Drake Clark, Jacob Surridge, and Wyatt Kennicutt. We value our time spent serving our local community and look forward to being involved more

All of our officers and members have done an outstanding job getting our new chapter started. In order to recognize some of their efforts we have decided to select an outstanding member each month. September's member of the month is senior Alex Hubbard. Alex serves as our chapter parliamentarian and has been involved in all of our summer activities. Additionally, Alex has been participating in the Nebraska Com Board Photo contest where he has been submitting pictures to earn our chapter a chance at winning money! Alex says he is looking forward to all of the contests and events that we have planned for FFA this year. He enjoys hunting and his dream job is an athletic director.

Our High School FFA Chapter along with other Ag students recently took a trip to Husker Harvest Days to explore and learn about different industries in agriculture and new technology.
